Letter From the Director

Dear Colleagues:

During the last year, we have been building the foundation for the MedStar Georgetown Cancer Institute to combine the expertise and resources of MedStar Georgetown University Hospital, MedStar Washington Hospital Center, MedStar Montgomery Medical Center, and MedStar National Rehabilitation Network. Georgetown Lombardi Comprehensive Cancer Center, the only comprehensive cancer center designated by the National Cancer Institute (NCI) in Washington, D.C., will serve as the institute’s research engine. This institute, which now extends to MedStar Franklin Square Medical Center and MedStar Health Bel Air Medical Campus in the Baltimore region, further allows us to work closely with our referring physician partners in the community.

The goal of the institute is to provide your patients with a unified, superior standard of care by fostering greater coordination and collaboration within our system and throughout our community. We will positively impact patient care by sharing our collective resources and expertise to develop targeted treatment plans that address every patient’s needs. We believe that treatments based on transformative research and the very latest evidence is essential to achieving excellence in cancer care. Accordingly, this institute allows us to expand and improve our ability to make the benefits of our research available to your patients, while always maintaining a focus on superior, compassionate, patient-centered care.

I hope you find this directory useful as an easy resource to identify the right physician who may provide specialty cancer care to your patients. I am very proud of the remarkable physicians and scientists affiliated with our institute.
Our specialists, many of whom are nationally recognized for their expertise in numerous specific cancer types and disciplines, cover the full continuum of care—from screening, prevention, research, diagnosis, and treatment at each of our network hospitals, to a personalized cancer rehabilitation program—ensuring patients throughout the region have access to the latest therapies available, closer to where they live and work. I encourage you to use this directory for referrals, consultations, and collaborations. We have a robust clinical trials program, and urge you to take an active role in referring your patients for these critically important studies. Please be on the lookout for updates regarding clinical trials that may offer your patients unique treatment options. Most importantly, we want to successfully transition your patients back into your care at the conclusion of treatment and keep you informed of their progress every step of the way.

The institute is the largest provider of cancer care in the area. We are joining forces to conquer cancer and look forward to working with you to make this happen.

With best regards,

Louis M. Weiner, MD
